TEACHING ENGLISH TO ENGLISH-LANGUAGE LEARNERS

For the 2011-2012 academic year, the Terakki Foundation Schools in Istanbul are accepting applications from licensed primary, middle, and secondary school teachers who are native speakers of English. Candidates must be qualified to teach in their own state/country and have at least three years' experience. Preferred candidates will have either the DELTA or an appropriate MA. We seek creative team players who can contribute to the ongoing development of the English-language programs. Salary and benefits are excellent. Please send your current CV, a recent photo, and a cover letter to humanresources@terakki.org.tr

About the Foundation: The Terakki ("progress" in Turkish) School was founded in 1877 in Salonika, then a major cultural and commercial center of the Ottoman Empire. The school has a well-established tradition of excellence in education and is now located on a large campus in the center of Istanbul

Remuneration:

Highly competitive salary, private health insurance, reimbursement for flights.

How to apply:

Please send your current CV, a recent photo, and a cover letter to humanresources@terakki.org.tr

Terakki Foundation Schools will NOT be attending the conference to interview candidates, so applications must be sent directly to humanresources@terakki.org.tr

NOTE: Only short-listed candidates will be contacted.
