A. S. Hornby Educational Trust

Teacher Association development project funds

2013

Call for project proposals from IATEFL Associate Teachers' Associations

The A. S. Hornby Educational Trust invites proposals for funding of small-scale projects from IATEFL Associates to support teacher and teacher association development.

The A. S. Hornby Educational Trust supports teacher development in developing countries and countries in transition. The Trust works with various partners to achieve this aim, including the British Council and IATEFL. The Trust wishes to make available to IATEFL Associates round the world project funding for activities which will support teacher and teacher association development in practical, sustainable and contextually relevant ways.

Projects will be chosen from the best proposals submitted by the deadline. A maximum of £2,000 will be granted for each project.

The projects will run in the period up to October 2013, with project reports required by the A. S. Hornby Trust from the project managers by the end of October 2013.

Successful projects supported by this scheme have been run by teachers' associations in countries including Namibia, India, Albania, Georgia and Cuba.

Examples of possible projects might include:

- outreach projects to support a new hub or branch and/or increase recruitment of new members;

- projects to evaluate existing provision and/or develop new services for members;
- projects which spread expertise within the particular Teachers' Association or across IATEFL Associates in other useful ways.

The Hornby Trust does not fund conference costs; conference participation costs; commercial publications; or whole projects. Project teams are asked to raise some partner or sponsorship funding towards the total project budget (known as 'matching funds'); some or even all of these 'matching funds' can be 'goods in kind', for example, free venue space, donated stationery, use of equipment, etc.

Co-ordination of the evaluation process will be managed by Irene Lavington, Teacher Development and Networks, British Council.

Evaluation of project proposals will be carried out by Les Kirkham, Associates Representative, IATEFL; Tim Phillips, Hornby Programmes Manager at the British Council; and Trustees from the A. S. Hornby Educational Trust.
