

Deputy Journal Editor (one vacancy)

PronSIG's bi-annual journal, Speak Out!, has been publishing content on the latest research, pronunciation pedagogy, and reviews for over 30 years. We are now looking for a deputy editor to assist with its ongoing publication.

The applicant:

You'll ideally have previous experience either in producing or editing academic content, be able to provide sensitive constructive feedback to contributors, and be able to support contributors when necessary. You'll be computer literate and an excellent communicator. You'll work alongside the editor for the remaining duration of their term.

Responsibilities:

- assisting with the sourcing of contributors for the two annual publications;
- assisting with editing of publications for the two annual issues;
- assisting with email correspondence and ongoing contributor support.

Training, guidance and support will be provided at all times!