The timing of the afternoon programme may alter slightly nearer the time of the event, but the event will start and finish at the times written below

Time	What
8.00 – 10.00	Collect your delegate badge from the IATEFL Registration Desk at Manchester Central before travelling to the University
9.30 -10.00	Coffee & Registration
10.00-10.10	Welcome from the SIG coordinator
10.15– 11.00	The implications of AI for language learning and teaching Rose Luckin (University College London)
11.05 - 11.45	What lies at the end of the AI rainbow? Helen Allen, Glyn Hughes (Cambridge Assessment English)
11.45 – 12.15	Coffee Break
12.20 – 13.00	Natural Language Processing (NLP) – what recent developments mean for teaching and learning Anna Weninger (University of Applied Sciences for Management and Communication Vienna)
13.00 – 14.25	Lunch networking and a chance to browse sponsor material
14.30 – 15.05	Anna Weninger Working with "free" online services to create NLP-enhanced teaching materials Busuu AI and Language Learning at Busuu Elias Robot Creating fun and engaging lessons
15.15 – 15.50	Cambridge Assessment English Computer-adaptive testing and automarking Gweek Your Speech Intelligence matters, inside and outside the classroom
15.50 - 16.20	Coffee break
16.20- 16.50 16.50 - 17.00	Reflection and wrap up of the day – hearing from delegates and speakers about their experience. Closing comments

Don't forget that everyone is also welcome to join us at our SIG Showcase on Monday 21 June at the IATEFL Annual Conference.

The day features the following talks and our Open Forum, where you can find out more about the SIG and meet the committee.

- Resilience, social media and language teacher development in challenging contexts - Gary Motteram
- How should we design for the 2020 digital learner? - Katy Asbury
- Literacies and emerging digital divides: mind the gap- Sophia Mavridi
- Flipping a pre-sessional course: design-delivery-redesign - David Read & Claire Basarich
- Ten years of mobile learning: what have we learned? - Caroline Moore
- English language teachers' learning to reflect through online interaction - Kenan Dikilitas
- Immersive spooky tales: teacher-generated VR 360º videos for ELT - Maria Belen Albarracin Fernandez
- IATEFL Learning Technologies Special Interest Group Open Forum