What is IATEFL?

IATEFL is an international professional membership association for English language teaching professionals, founded in 1967, and run by members for the benefit of members. It is a non-profit organisation and also a UK registered charity supporting teachers around the world through a wide range of initiatives. At its heart IATEFL is a global professional community. We offer a range of services, benefits and training opportunities for English language teaching professionals, and provide a platform where they can offer their views, exchange research and teaching experiences and learn from each other.

Why join IATEFL?

- discounted rates at all IATEFL events, including the annual international conference.
- discounts on English language teaching resources, publications, products, services and courses from a range of companies.
- IATEFL Voices, our bi-monthly publication, delivered to you online, plus the chance to get your work published in it.
- Conference Selections, our peer-reviewed publication following the annual international conference each year.
- monthly webinars and certificates for those you attend.
- regular online support sessions for those beginning in their teaching career.
- searchable archive of articles, publications, interviews and webinars.
- build your professional network, volunteer on one of the committees, vote on who leads the association and have your say!
- and much more!

Welcome from the IATEFL President

Dear friends,

The warmest IATEFL welcome to Brighton and our 59th annual conference, from the trustees, our head office team, and our fantastic volunteers. We hope you have a great time learning, sharing ideas, and socialising. And yes, socialising and catching up with people is an important part of the event.

Please use this programme to plan your time. There are so many talks, daytime and evening events, as well as the exhibition to keep you engaged, but planning is the key as you can't do everything! For me, one of the most enjoyable aspects is to jump out of my comfort zone and go to talks about aspects of our profession that are new to me. The IATEFL conference is a unique opportunity to do this.

If you are a member of IATEFL please do come to our Annual General Meeting (AGM) on Wednesday at 13.05 in Syndicate 3. It is an opportunity to hear more about IATEFL, how we operate and our plans for the future. We also encourage members to share their ideas about IATEFL and our activities.

We could not run the conference without the support of our sponsors and exhibitors. Discover all that's new in the world of English language teaching by visiting their stands in our major exhibition, which is spread between two floors this year. You'll find new books and materials, online platforms, professional development courses, assessment and testing platforms and much much more.

The evening social programmes are always fun, so do come and unwind, and make new friends. If this is your first IATEFL conference, and you don't know many people, then approach other delegates, say hello and where you are from and conversations will follow - we are a pretty friendly bunch! I'd also recommend that you join our first timer meet up on the first morning of the conference, and any other of our professional 'meet ups' on the IATEFL Stand which apply to you, whether you're a school teacher, manager, materials writer, university lecturer or online tutor.

Do also find time to explore Brighton, it's a fascinating, fun and eccentric city - just look at the Pavilion and you'll see what I mean. Some delegates go swimming apparently, but I think the water is as cold as it looks!

As well as our sponsors and exhibitors, on behalf of my fellow trustees I would like thank all our volunteers and the team at the Brighton Centre, and give a massive round of applause to our head office team. And thank you too for joining us, we all appreciate it.

Warm regards,

Christopher Graham
IATEFL President and Chair of the Board of Trustees

Frequently asked questions

Where can I go if I have a question?

If you have a question about the conference, go to the Registration Desk in the ground floor foyer, where IATEFL staff and stewards will be on hand to answer your questions. The Desk will be open at the following times:

Monday: 0800-1800

Tuesday: 0730-1730

Wednesday - Thursday: 0800-1730

Friday: 0800-1400

Do I need my delegate badge every day?

Yes, you won't be able to enter the venue without your delegate badge sponsored by IELTS. A replacement badge will cost you £10.

Where can I collect my certificate?

All delegates will be emailed their certificates, sponsored by Macmillan Education, after the conference. Please note, this could take up to two weeks to arrive.

Is there a Conference App?

Our Conference App, sponsored by Duolingo English Test, is where you can view the abstracts for each session in the academic programme. To access the app, download conf.app from your App Store or Google Play and then scan the QR code on the front cover of this programme.

Can I take photos and videos?

Delegates are welcome to take their own photos throughout the Conference, but please be aware that filming in sessions will not be allowed without consent from both IATEFL and the presenter(s). IATEFL photographers and videographers will be in all areas of the venue taking photos of delegates and conducting video interviews. If you do not want to be included in the photos or videos, please let the photographers and videographers know. Photos and videos taken at the conference on behalf of IATEFL will be used by IATEFL for journalistic and marketing purposes, including on social media. IATEFL's privacy policy can be found on our website: www.iatefl.org/about/key-documents.

Is there somewhere I can leave my coat?

There is a cloakroom located in the ground floor foyer. The cost is £2. Please note, the cloakroom can only take cash payments. To pay by card go to the Registration Desk. Suitcases cannot be accepted and should not be brought into the venue.

Where can I purchase food and drink?

You will find catering points in the Exhibition. During breaks there is free tea, coffee and cold drinks, as well as snacks for sale. At lunchtime you will be able to purchase hot and cold meals. There are also water coolers available around the venue for your use.

Is there somewhere I can go for quiet reflection?

Located in Meeting room 7, on Level 4, there is a prayer room set aside for reflection. It is for people of all faiths and none. You can also visit the Oxford Wellness Park, sponsored by Oxford University Press located next to the cloakroom.

When and where is the IATEFL AGM?

We invite all IATEFL members to attend the IATEFL Annual General Meeting at 1305-1405 on Wednesday 22 April in Syndicate 3. The agenda is available for IATEFL members to view in their dashboard on the IATEFL website.

Where can I find the IATEFL Stand?

The IATEFL Stand is in the ground floor foyer near the Registration Desk. On the stand you will be able to find out more about IATEFL or attend one of our networking meet ups:

English language - the coloniser. A black female leader's response

Patricia Angoy

English is just one language in which we think, learn, ideate and develop egalitarian communities with others. How then do leaders in International Schools honour ancestral heritage and engage with the colonial harms of the past and present? This plenary session will focus on one experience of international school leadership, across three continents; Latin America and the Caribbean, Europe and Africa.

About Patricia:

I am an international educator, philanthropist, activist and writer, born in Georgetown, Guyana during the colonial period. My early academic study was in the UK at the universities of London and Warwick. Later, at Harvard and Johns Hopkins in the USA on their post-graduate programmes, and finally at the University of Exeter where I was awarded my doctoral degree. My thesis (2022) is titled: Decolonising Leadership in International Education – one black life: one perspective.

I first started teaching in 1979 in the East End of London, then as a volunteer in rural schools in coastal Ecuador before moving to Chile where I worked extensively in British and international schools; at primary, secondary and university levels. My last post was as Head of School at Waterford Kamhlaba UWCSA, from which I retired in December 2022. In the intervening years I have led educational teams in Chile, Togo, Cuba, Ecuador and Luxembourg.

Emergent language: how we see it and what it can be

Richard Chinn and Danny Norrington-Davies

The term emergent language has firmly embedded itself in ELT discourse since it appeared as a key tenet of Dogme ELT. Emergent language refers to working with the unexpected language needs of learners, but does it mean the same thing to everybody? In this session, we explore how our understanding of emergent language has evolved through conversations with teachers in various contexts, showing that however the term is understood, the learners should always be at the forefront of the conversation. We will focus on the dynamic nature of emergent language and consider its potential in supporting learners' language development.

About Richard and Danny

Richard is a teacher educator working between International House London and King's College London, where he currently contributes to the MA TESOL programme. He has taught English and supported teachers in a wide range of global contexts, including Asia, Central and South America, Europe, and Africa. He is co-author of the ELTons finalist book Working with Emergent Language (Pavilion). His current research focuses on classroom interaction, teacher education, and teacher development.

Danny is a teacher and teacher-trainer working at International House London. He has worked in several countries, and his interests in ELT are emergent language, authenticity, materials design, creativity, and ways of looking at grammar. His first book, Teaching grammar: from rules to reasons was published by Pavilion in 2016. He is also the co-author of the book Working with Emergent Language (2023), also by Pavilion. Both books were ELTONs finalists for teaching innovation. When he's not in a classroom, you can find him on his allotment trying to grow things.

Reimagining language education for peace in our divided world

Larisa Kasumagić Kafedžić

This plenary explores the use of peace pedagogies in language education within polarized communities, conflict-ridden global settings, and politically militarized environments. It will explore how political-ideological shifts shape new realities for language classrooms and assert the necessity of prioritizing pre-service and in-service language teacher education in reform efforts towards peace education. The central argument claims that language classrooms must become spaces for (re)humanizing education against political fragmentation, normalization of violence, commercialization of childhood and technocratic approaches to learning and teaching, by ensuring learners gain values required for peace communication and nonviolent conflict transformation through social interactions and engaged transformative learning. The lecture will conclude with specific examples of integrating children's and young adult literature and arts to effectively teach sensitive issues and controversial topics across diverse levels and cultural settings.

About Larisa

She holds an MPS in International Development and Education from Cornell University and a Ph.D. in English Language Pedagogy and Intercultural Education from Sarajevo University. Professor Kasumagić- Kafedžić is an associate professor at the University of Sarajevo's Department of English Language and Literature in the Faculty of Philosophy. For 25 years, she has been active in the field of peace education, language and culture teaching, youth development programs, and the study of nonviolence and intercultural pedagogy. She is the founding president and a member of the Peace Education Hub established at the University of Sarajevo in early 2020.

5 things I wish I'd known when I started teaching

Laura Patsko

I'm approaching 20 years in ELT and have had quite a 'squiggly' career path, moving back and forth between teaching, training, materials development, research, writing, learning experience design... When I pause and reflect on that journey, there are many things I wish I'd known when I was just starting out – about language, about professional development and about the huge diversity of human beings behind the labels 'teacher' and 'learner'. In this plenary, I'll focus on just a few to share with you!

About Laura

Laura Patsko is a learning experience designer, consultant, researcher, teacher and trainer. After a BA in Linguistics, she began her ELT career with a CELTA, then a Delta, later becoming a teacher trainer herself and gaining an MA in ELT & Applied Linguistics. She has worked on a wide range of projects in a wide range of contexts, and nowadays has a portfolio career comprising mainly training, research and learning design. She specializes in ILXD (inclusive learning experience design), in teaching/learning in low-resource contexts, and in language learning and communication in diverse cultural and international settings, particularly the pronunciation of English in lingua franca contexts. Outside work, you'll probably find her doing crafts, hiking up mountains, learning a new language or training her awesome little dog, Hero.

Teaching at a turning point

Rachael Roberts

Language teaching has entered a period of rapid change, as tools, institutions and learner expectations shift around us. Yet the greatest risk to our profession may not come from technology or markets, but from the ongoing and increasing pressures that lead teachers to stay quiet, adapt endlessly, and undervalue their expertise. This plenary examines how these dynamics develop across different contexts, and how greater awareness of our value, impact, and professional judgement can support a future in which language teaching remains respected, sustainable, and deeply human.

About Rachael

Rachael Roberts has worked in English language teaching for more than thirty years, in roles including teacher, teacher trainer, academic manager and materials writer, across a wide range of contexts in the UK and internationally. She has authored a number of ELT courses, and has trained and mentored teachers at different stages of their careers. Today, through Earn Learn Thrive, she runs a coaching and professional development practice supporting freelance and self-employed language teachers and trainers to develop sustainable ways of working and build businesses that honour both their expertise and their learners' needs.

Additional Sessions

How To presentations

Attend one of our morning 'How To' sessions, presented by experienced practitioners. These sessions aim to build confidence, inspire experimentation, and support continuous professional development across the ELT community.

Wednesday 22

0830-0850 Meeting Room 1A How to write for IATEFL Voices
We will explore ideas for articles and review guidelines in terms of content, length and style. We will also look at some recent articles and discuss what makes them successful.
Speaker: Derek Philip-Xu

0830-0850 Meeting Room 1B How to get the best out of LinkedIn
With LinkedIn now becoming the premier professional networking tool, and a valuable platform for job seekers and sales professionals alike, it is imperative that you optimise your LinkedIn profile to present yourself in the best possible way and get it working for you.
This presentation and Q & A session, by top CV writer Peter Panayotou, covers all the main features of LinkedIn to get your profile into shape, plus a few clever and lesser-known tips and tricks to help get you noticed.
Speaker: Peter Panayotou

0830-0850 Meeting Room 1C How to move from being a teacher to becoming a teacher trainer
Making the change from teaching to teacher training is an exciting career prospect but it can be difficult to know where to begin. Join this session to discover if it's the right move for you, how teacher training differs to teaching, (and how it doesn't), and to find out how you can get started as a teacher trainer.
Speaker: Matthew Ellman

Thursday 23

0830-0850 Meeting Room 1A How to make research part of my professional practice
In this workshop, we will reflect on how we define research and expand our understandings of what it can mean for us as teachers. We will look at core components of doing research and consider how to make these actions sustainable parts of our regular practice. We will see how engaging in this kind of research can be beneficial for us and for our learners. The aim is for participants to leave the session with a sense of agency and the possible identity as a researcher.
Speaker: Sarah Mercer

0830-0850 Meeting Room 1B How to be a more sustainable teacher in a more sustainable organisation
This session revolves around ten practical things that we can do to be more sustainable teachers in more sustainable organisations. Based around the UN Sustainable Development Goals, five of these relate to your classroom and five to the wider institution. That's two minutes per point - bring some coffee!
Speaker: Christopher Graham

0830-0850 Meeting Room 1C Canva in ELT
Canva isn't just a design platform, it's a very valuable digital tool that enhances pedagogical approaches in the language classroom. How can we get the best out of Canva? I'll share practical classroom examples and insights so you leave ready to use Canva with clarity, confidence, and purpose.
Speaker: Clare Hayward

Friday 24

0830-0850 Meeting Room 1A How to Maximise Your IATEFL Membership, Choose-Your-Own-Adventure Style
Your IATEFL story turns a page here. As the protagonist, you decide which page to turn to: pursue new skill-building challenges, explore community-building paths with like-minded colleagues around the world, or choose member-exclusive adventures that add meaningful boosts to your CV. Attend this session to discover the branches and plot twists your membership offers, and choose the story-line that unlocks the next chapter of your professional narrative.
Speakers: Tyson Seburn & Colm Downes

0830-0850 Meeting Room 1B How to work to support New Teachers through Effective Mentorships
Effective mentors facilitate growth through trust by offering constructive feedback, sharing subject-specific expertise, and modelling a positive professional culture. We will explore the three essential pillars of successful mentoring — goal-setting, ongoing professional dialogue, and emotional support — all of which foster trust and long-term development.
Speaker: Aleksandra Popovski

Pop-up Presentations Stage

The Pop-up Presentation Stage is back again for 2026, where you will be able to listen to a variety of interesting short talks during break times. Why not grab a free hot drink from the Exhibition and make your way to the Pop-up Presentation Stage located on the East Landing, between the Exhibition and Auditorium, to hear all about these interesting topics!

Tuesday 21

1030-1045 Pearson
Eight years of English. Thirty seconds of silence. What if the most important speaking practice happened when you weren't watching?
A student can spend eight years in English classrooms and still fall completely silent the moment it matters. Her teacher never finds out... This is a story about what classrooms can and cannot provide. Research tells us clearly what speaking development requires: sufficient practice volume, low-anxiety conditions, and feedback that actually changes behaviour. The pedagogy has been settled for decades. The space to deliver it has never existed until now, outside the classroom. Pearson's Speaking Tutor is that space: an AI speaking practice platform built around these three principles, giving students somewhere safe to practise and teachers the visibility to act on what they find.

Speakers: Aslihan Ozsen, ELL Product Manager, Pearson

1330-1345 Trinity College London
Life skills for a transforming world: Language learning beyond the classroom
Discover how Trinity supports teachers and learners develop the transferable life skills needed in today's transforming world. This session explores practical classroom and CPD resources (including NoteLab English, skills development guides, lesson materials and coursebooks) that help build communication, creativity, collaboration and critical thinking. We'll also show how Trinity's language exams and qualifications, including GESE and ISE, enable learners to demonstrate these skills authentically.
Speakers: Martin Oetegenn - Senior Marketing Manager - Language & TESOL

1400-1415 Cambridge University Press & Assessment
Why Climate-Only Sustainability Fails Our Learners
Many ELT 'sustainability' lessons focus solely on environmental topics. But there are other aspects such as social sustainability, which considers the skills needed for ensuring healthy and equitable communities for present and future generations. By exploring key issues like social justice and inclusivity, we can positively impact learner engagement and motivation. This session, using the Cambridge Sustainability Framework for ELT, reframes sustainability through the human lens, and will offer practical ready-to-use activities that explore how socially sustainable teaching creates more inclusive and empowering classrooms. You will leave with concrete strategies and activities for making sustainability relevant to your learners.
Speakers: Cecília Harmer and Rory Ruddock

Wednesday 22

1015-1030 Duolingo English Test
The DET: Transforming Testing for Good
The Duolingo English Test (DET) leverages AI to personalize itself in real-time to every test taker, honing in on their true proficiency more efficiently and securely.
Speakers: Sophie Wodzak

1200-1215 University of Birmingham
How to apply for a PhD at a UK University
In this presentation I will outline some of the best ways to apply for a PhD in the humanities at a UK University.
I will try to answer these questions:
- What is involved in studying for a PhD in the UK?
- Do I apply to the University, or do I find my supervisor first?
- How do I find a supervisor?
- Funding, supervisor, university – which or who do I look for first?
- Do I need to prepare a research proposal?
Speaker: Crayton Walker

1315-1330 British Council
Making the most of TeachingEnglish for your continuing professional development
This pop-up presentation introduces the range of open-access professional development resources available on TeachingEnglish.org.uk and shows how they align with the British Council's CPD framework for teachers and its accompanying self-assessment tool. Participants will explore how TeachingEnglish courses, articles, teaching resources and practical guides map onto the professional practices within the framework to support reflective practice, scaffold progression and enable teachers to plan and embark on their own CPD journeys. Attendees will leave with practical guidance on navigating the site and making effective use of the free resources available to support teacher professional development.
Speaker: Joanna Gore

TESOL International training center Designing an International ELT Model from an Emerging Market

What does it take to design an international ELT model from outside traditionally dominant educational centres? This session explores the strategic development of a UK-aligned teacher training structure operating from Central Asia. In many emerging ELT contexts, access to internationally recognised qualifications, structured quality assurance systems, and standardised teacher development pathways remains limited. Rather than viewing these constraints as barriers, they can become catalysts for intentional design. The presentation outlines how a locally established training centre transitioned from delivering standalone methodology courses to implementing a structured, scalable model aligned with international standards.

Learning Integrity in the Age of AI: Can Formative Assessment Keep Up?

As generative AI increasingly becomes part of English language classrooms, though not in every context yet, teachers face new challenges in maintaining learning integrity. This session explores how formative assessment can evolve to support genuine skill development, using insights from new Pearson research. Panellists debate authentic evidence of learning and share practical task designs that promote reflection and original thinking.

Blended Learning Designs

Designing eLearning that actually works for everyone

Not every barrier in learning is visible. Many come from the way learning is designed.

Accessible design isn't about doing more.

It's about designing differently, so more learners can engage from the start.
